The following cases were tried :

Reading vs Whittington—An action brought by Chas. W. Reading against Geo. W. Whittington for $500 damages in the partnership dealing of making brick. Judgement as follows:

If the defendant consents to pay plaintiff $50 and if plaintiff will execute a release of all claims against defendant within ten days judgment accordingly and no costs to either party. If this compromise judgement be not accepted by parties in ten days the alternative judgement will be declaring: (1) The agreement as to sale of lands null and void and of no effect whatever. (2) Dissolution of partnership. (3) Reference to Clerk of this Court to take partnership accounts and wind it up. (4) That each party pay his own costs. (5) Further deductions and costs of reference resumed until after referee makes his report. (6) Defendant's counterclaim dismissed with costs. Herrington, Warner & Grange for plaintiff, Jno. English for defendant.

Wilson vs. Knapp — An action brought by Wilson & Bro., of Napanee, against Catherine A. Knapp, of the Township of Richmond, to recover the amount due on a promissory note for $500 made by defendant. Judgement as follows:

The post office department has issued an order against the use of Christmas stamps sold in aid of patriotic or commemorative purposes. The department has been notified by several foreign countries in the postal union that their regulations will not allow them to recognize such stamps and that all such letters will be returned to the country of origin. The order applies not only to foreign but Canadian mail, and covers anti-tuberculosis society stamps and all others not the recognized stamps of the department.

Rev. W. H. Emsley, of Picton, preaching in Queen street Methodist church on Sunday evening made a remark that caused amusement at the expense of the choir. Speaking of the detrimental effects of war on the industries of a country. He cited the closing of the cotton factories in Lancashire at the time of the war. He continued to speak of the joy of the colored people when peace was declared. "They sang," said he, "and such singing I never heard before or since." Turning to the choir he remarked: "Many of them had no voices, but they sang better than you can. I believe the angels envied them." The last sentence somewhat relieved the feelings of the choristers—Kings-ton Whig.

York Loan company shareholders who have not yet made their claim for dividends, will be given until March 1st, 1913, to send in their claims. After that date no claims will be recognized. A special act will be asked for at Ottawa to give the liquidators of the defunct company power to close the books on that date and declare a final dividend. Out of the 114,000 shareholders, 10,543 having $125,434 to their credit in the books of the company, have filed no claim. The unclaimed dividend lying in the bank amount to $92,000. All that is necessary shareholders to do to get their dividends is for them to send to the National Trust company their certificate numbers.

According to the latest available estimates furnished by competent authorities the casualty list of the Balkan war up to the present time stands as follows:

Country.	Killed.	Wounded.
Turkey.....	20,000	100,000
Bulgaria.....	10,000	40,000
Servia.....	3,500	15,000
Montenegro.....	800	5,000
Greece.....	300	2,200

Total..... 34,000 162,700
Above the cost of maintaining their usual military establishment, it is estimated that the warring states have spent $150,000,000 on the struggle, not counting injury to trade, the destruction of property or the lost services of the killed and maimed.

A correspondent at Shannonville furnishes us with the following particulars of a brutal assault committed on Mr. Wm. Doxtator on Thursday night of last week. He was on his way home in the evening from his work at Point Anne and was passing through the woods on the route when some unknown party rushed up behind him and dealt him a heavy blow from the rear. In the ensuing struggle Mr. Doxtator's face and hands were badly bruised. As the night was dark Mr. Doxtator was unable to recognize his assailant. The latter probably made the attack for the purpose of robbery, and may have been under the impression that it was pay night. Fortunately Mr. Doxtator had no money upon him at the time. He walks six miles every day, going to and from his work and is doing his best to provide a living for his family. Much sympathy for him is expressed throughout the community.—Belleville Ontario.

PROTEST IS PRESENTED

Britain's Panama Note to Secretary Knox

Ambassador Bryce Commends Great Britain's Formal Objection to Canal Tolls—Will Re-consideration and Exclusion of Road-Owned Boats—A May Be Necessary.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Great Britain's formal note of protest that section of the Panama Convention which exempts American shipping through the Panama Canal was presented to the Secretary of State, Philander C. Knox, by the British ambassador Bryce, who read the note word to the Secretary at the State Department.

It is an elaboration of the objection in the note presented State Department last July. These objections are: That was clearly in violation of the Pauncefote treaty either to refund tolls on all American using the canal, the same probably would apply to the trade shipping in view of the impossibility of framing conditions that would not result in preference to American shipping.

In addition to supporting points by long arguments, Sir Grey indicates very clear strong resistance will be made to any attempt to exclude from British ships owned by Canadian roads, or whose owners may be violating the Sherman Act. He holds that this section cannot apply to British but only to U. S. vessels.

He also indicates in his note underlying the objection to exemption from toll of American ships is an apprehension that the future the principle might be extended to American ships in foreign trade.

Otherwise the note is devoted most entirely to an effort to state that any such exclusion of American shipping as is proposed in direct conflict with the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. President Taft was clear when he took the contrary view.

The note winds up with a statement that the issues should be submitted to arbitration, provided that it not be adjusted by mutual agreement, for which a way remains open.

Secretary Knox promised to message careful consideration.

up to the second reading of the bill.

Two things are requisite before House can consider a bill whose purpose is the appropriation of money. The first of the recommendation of the Governor as provided by the British American Act; the second is the adoption of a resolution by the whole House declaring expenditure to be expedient.

Mr. Borden moved the first reading of the naval bill, Mr. Speaker called his attention to these requisites. The Prime Minister in reply that the $35,000,000 appropriation had been recommended by His Royal Highness the Governor General and that the necessary resolution would be put through the committee of the whole House.

At the time the Speaker Borden had in mind a rule which permits certain bills to pass through the Senate and introduced in the House without being preceded by a resolution. Such appropriate money incidentally sections relating to the appropriation of money are printed in italics closed in brackets and the blanks until referred to, and favorably from the committee of the whole House.

Mr. Borden crossed the floor House yesterday afternoon at a conference, the result of which probably be that the Liberals will courteously permit the bill to be brought in and reported sent without discussion to the preparing for discussion on Tuesday.

The Struggles of a Sculptor.
Auguste Rodin, the Frenchman, had a great struggle with and adverse criticism in his young episode of this early period says: "With that inflexible singleness of purpose that never him throughout his career the sculptor set himself to express marble or bronze his conception and art. He used his leisure time at nighttime in a desert he had transformed into a studio his wonderful mask of 'The Man with the Broken Nose.' After months of hard and patient finished this mask and sent it to the salon. It took the hanging committee fourteen years to discover any the work, for it was rejected and finally accepted only in 1898."

WAR MINISTER QUILTS.

Ministerial Change In Austria May Indicate War.

London, Dec. 10.—No explanation is yet forthcoming of the sudden re-signation of the Austro-Hungarian Minister of War, Gen. Auffenberg, and the chief of the general staff, Gen. Schemua. They have said that their action was due to personal reasons, but coming at such a time as the present it cannot be doubted that it will have a wide political significance.

It had been expected that in the event of war Gen. Von Hoetzendorf would be appointed chief of staff, and his appointment now to succeed Gen. Schemua, couple with the news of the renewal of the Dreibund and that Austria and Hungary, have negotiated temporary loans of $50,000,000 cannot but have a disquieting effect on the international situation.

It is supposed that Austria wishes possibly to exert a strong influence over the coming conference proceed- ings at London and especially to pre- vent the entry of Turkey into the Balkan federation.

The Austrian war party is known to be inflamed against Russia, in the belief that the defiant Russian attitude is due to the Franco-Russian alliance, and some of the Austrian newspapers, representing the war party, are urging that unless Russia ceases mobilizing, the powers compris- ing the Triple Alliance should fall upon France and crush her before Russia is able to intervene.

However, the crisis may end, the war fever is having a disastrous effect on Austro-Hungarian trade. A complete financial panic prevails through- out Galicia, where the various banks have recently paid out more than $40,000,000 to nervous depositors, with- out stemming the run.

It was reported at Paris yesterday that the entire Austrian fleet had concentrated at Pola, the chief naval station of Austria-Hungary.

Changes In Austria.

Vienna, Dec. 10.—Important changes have taken place in the Austro-Hungarian war department. Gen. Auffenberg, the Minister of War, resigned yesterday. Gen. Krobatin, Under Secretary in the War Office, has been appointed as his successor.

Gen. Schemua, chief of the general staff, who recently paid a significant visit to Berlin and conferred with Count von Moltke, chief of the general staff of the German army, has also resigned. He has been succeed- ed by Gen. Von Hoetzendorf, who held the same post several years ago.

Guelph, Dec. 10.—The provincial winter fair opened yesterday morning without formality and at 9.15 the poultry judges were busy. All day long the trains have been unloading visi- tors at the stations which are the busiest spots in town with the excep- tion of the fair building itself. Guelph is striving hard to act the part of host in an efficient manner. Some of the hotels are already filled, but the officers of the fair and the city offi- cials have arranged for billeting in private houses and in this way they hope sufficient accommodation will be provided for all visitors.

The feature of to-day program has been the judging of the horses and beef cattle. The predominating class of horses at the fair is as usual the Clydesdale, while the cattle are head-

Report Filed by Arbitrators In Dis- pute Between Company and Its Striking Brotherhood of Railway Employees Awards Reinstatement, Increase and Pay While on Strike— Company's Minority Report.

Ottawa, Dec. 10.—The award of the conciliation board appointed by the Minister of Labor to investigate the dispute between the Brotherhood of Railway Employees and the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., which resulted in a strike of the men, and which is still going on, was filed at the Depart- ment of Labor yesterday afternoon.

The report, which is signed by Judge McGibbon of Brampton, Ont., chairman of the board, and J. A. McDonald of Halifax, indicates the claims made by the men, and recom- mends that practically all their de- mands be granted.

The dispute between the men and the company has been going on for some months. Recognition of the schedules and an increase in pay of 15 per cent. were among the principal demands made by the men. This the company refused, and the brotherhood applied to the Department for a board of arbitration, but failed, and a strike was begun. Hon. T. W. Crothers finally decided to appoint a board. It was composed of Judge McGibbon, J. A. McDonald of Halifax, represent- ing the men, and J. E. Duval of Mont- real, representing the company. The latter gentleman was named by the Department after the C.P.R. refused to be represented.

It recommends as follows: (1) The strikers to be reinstated in their old position immediately at the salaries they were receiving previous to the strike. (2) The strikers to receive back pay for the time they have been on strike. (3) The men who were dis- charged by the company for their con- nection with the Brotherhood of Rail- way Employees should be treated as strikers and receive the same treat- ment. (4) Increase of salaries recom- mended, but the matter is left to in- terested parties to be arranged at a later date. (5) The report is to cover all district affected within the scope

The first of these is a resolution of the Governor-General, provided by the British North America Act; the second is the adoption of a resolution by the committee of the whole House declaring such a bill to be expedient. When moved the first reading of a bill, Mr. Speaker Sproule is attention to these preliminaries. The Prime Minister said that the $35,000,000 appropriation was recommended by the Highness the Governor-General and that the necessary resolution should be put through the committee of the whole House later on. At the time the Speaker and Mr. Adair moved a rule of practice permits certain bills to be introduced in the Senate and introduced in the House without being presented to a resolution. Such bills are money bills incidentally and the bills relating to the appropriation are printed in italics or enclosed in brackets and treated as such until referred to, and reported from the committee of the whole House.

Mr. Adair crossed the floor of the House yesterday afternoon and held a conference with the result of which will be that the Liberal leader will permit the resolution to be brought in and reported by the committee of the whole House on Thursday.

Struggles of a Sculptor.

Rodin, the French sculptor, has a great struggle with poverty and criticism in his youth. Of this early period a writer writes that inflexible will and purpose that never failed throughout his career the young artist set himself to express in clay, bronze his conception of life. He used his leisure in work-time in a deserted stable transformed into a studio and wore a mask of 'The Man With a Nose.' After eighteen hours of hard and patient labor he took the hanging committee to discover any merit in it for it was rejected in 1864 and accepted only in 1878."

The feature of to-day program has been the judging of the horses and beef cattle. The predominating class of horses at the fair is as usual the Clydesdale, while the cattle are headed by the Shorthorns.

The attendance for the first day was estimated at 3,000. Of these 2,400 were admitted by passes and 600 were admitted by the paid admission route.

The following is a partial list of firsts for horses and cattle:

Canadian bred Clydesdale mare, foaled in 1910: George Dale and Son, Seaforth.

Shire mare, 1911: 1st and 2nd, Porter Bros., Appleby.

Percheron stallion, 1910: J. B. Hogg, Weston.

Beef cattle, 2-year-old Shorthorn: Pritchard Bros., Fergus.

One-year-old Shorthorn steer: H. E. Alton, jr., Everton.

Shorthorn steers, under one year: A. F. and G. Auld, Eden Mills.

Shorthorn heifer, two years: Charley Ban, Blyth.

Under two years: W. R. Elliott & Sons, Guelph.

Under one year: H. Smith, Hay.

Clydesdale stallion, foaled 1911—John A. Boag & Son, Queensville.

Shires, stallion, foaled before 1910—John Gardhouse & Son.

Shire mare, foaled 1910—J. M. Gardhouse.

Percheron stallion—Mrs. J. Haines, West Toronto.

Hackney stallion, foaled before 1910: G. H. Pickering, Brantford.

Will Not Curtail.

London, Dec. 10.—All doubts were swept away yesterday of the possibility of Great Britain curtailing her own naval program in view of the gift by Canada to the British Empire of three powerful battleships at a cost of $35,000,000.

Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, speaking in the House of Commons, said he adhered to the point of view of the Canadian Government which is, he announced:

"That the aid given by Canada should be in addition to the existing British program, and that any steps Canada might take should directly strengthen the naval forces of the Empire and the margin available for its security."

Mr. Churchill deprecated the putting of further questions on the subject pending the approval by the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada of the naval proposal put forward by Rt. Hon. Robert L. Borden, the Canadian Premier.

strikers and receive the same treatment. (4) Increase of salaries recommended, but the matter is left to interested parties to be arranged at a later date. (5) The report is to cover all district affected within the scope of the board.

The report then lays down rules which shall govern the members of the brotherhood regarding seniority, vacancies, appointments, etc. The board further decided that the schedules recommended should take effect from May 1, 1912, and remain in effect for one year, and from year to year thereafter.

For public holidays and Sundays the board recommends that the men be paid time and a half.

Judge McGibbon in his report highly commends the assistance given him by Mr. Crothers, and speaks in the highest terms of the administration of the Department.

The minority report of Mr. Duval has not yet been filed, but it is understood that it agrees on most points with that of Judge McGibbon and Mr. McDonald.

The Minister of Labor is confident that an agreement will speedily follow the board's finding, but it is thought that the company will oppose the recommendation that the men should be given back pay while on strike. The strike has been on now for five weeks, and the men claim that they will remain out until their claims are granted.

Galt's Gas Service Poor.

Galt, Dec. 10.—The natural gas service since the cold snap has depreciated to such an extent that all consumers are greatly inconvenienced and in cases where the motive-power depends on the supply, are seriously handicapped and put to loss. Complaints are so universal and insistent that the council consider taking decisive action to redress the grievance. The gas company assign no reason for the shortage and do not seem disposed to exertions to relieve the distressing situation.

THE DOINGS AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Dec. 6th. — On Tuesday night the debate on the speech from the Throne culminated in a straight party vote by which to express their approval of the outrages committed in the Macdonald bye-election by the Roger's-Roblin combination. During over a week of debate this subject had been uppermost, and every detail of the bad business had been laid bare, backed by the affidavits of the victims and by the affirmations of three members of Parliament on their honor and responsibility as such. It was shown that a veritable reign of terror had existed in Macdonald; that Liberal workers had been hounded by government detectives and police, arrested without cause, jailed without definite charge, ill-treated in prison, offered release if they would perjure themselves with pleas of guilty, bullied with forged documents in an effort to prove them guilty, searched like malefactors, forbidden access to their lawyers, refused bail, and spirited around from place to place in an effort to make them obey the will of the Rogers-Roblin cabal.

No case could have been more clearly established. It was even admitted by such Tories as W. F. McLean and J. H. Burnham of West Peterboro that the matter was one of great gravity which demanded prompt investigation. Charge after charge was made, proof after proof was driven home by every evidence honorable men could demand or dishonest men dread. Little of this however was heard by Hon. Robert Rogers. After making a brief defense of the outrages not denying the facts but trying to make them appear of little importance, he left the Chamber, and seldom re-entered until the vote was taken.

And the upshot was that the government summoned all its forces and at the crack of the party whet they voted their approval of the lawless outrages in Macdonald and the open attempts at corrupting a whole riding in Richelieu. The Premier was the first to vote that everything was alright, and he was speedily followed by Hon. W. T. White, from whom better things might have been hoped, and the rest of the party, and Sir Wilfrid's motion censuring such practices was defeated by 119 to 71.

MONDOU'S AMENDMENT SWAMPED.

The amendment, presented by Mr. Mondou, the Nationalist member for Yamaska, was artfully framed to catch the unwary. After perfunctory ex-naval announcements made on Thursday, and one which comporting neither with the dignity of the Prime Minister nor the non-partizan treatment of the naval question which he has been demanding. Acting along the lines of the circus booster he sent his speech embodying the naval proposals to the leading Conservative journals of the Dominion several days before it was delivered, to be "released" when he arose in the House on Thursday. Not content with this, the speech, some five thousand words of it, was committed to a leading news agency, and cabled to England for distribution amongst friendly papers there as soon as the signal was given from Ottawa by the Premier. So that days before the announcement was made Mr. Borden's speech was lying in cold type in newspaper offices of two continents, neatly fixed up and interpreted with "Hear, Hear," "Loud Applause," "Cheers" and so on at what seemed fitting places.

Apart altogether from the dignity or prudence of such an emergency method to secure prompt publicity it shows an evident lack of sincerity in the Premier. He has for long professed to pose as an Imperial statesman, and urged that this Imperial navy proposition be elevated above the sphere of party politics. But quite apart from this his action was altogether wrong. Parliament was entitled to the first knowledge of the Premier's intention, and the representatives of the people were the ones whose right it was to be the first to comment upon it from their seats in Parliament.

Such an unstatesmanlike and partizan procedure compares ill with the manner in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Ministers approached the Reciprocity announcements. There was no circus poster business, no partizan favours. Liberal and Tory were treated alike to judicious silence until the proper time for the announcement, and then the people and press of all parties were given equal opportunity. Mr. Borden can hardly be said to have added to the dignity of his high office by descending to the methods of press booster, and ignoring the rights of Parliament of which he is the leader.

STEERED TORTUOUS NAVAL COURSE.

Premier Borden has hardly shown qualifications which would fit him for an admiralty post in the Canadian navy. His record on this question amply bears out the Scripture: "Unstable as water that shalt not excel." This is how he has steered his way during the past year or two:

1906.—Declared for navy built man-

British Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Mr. Asquith, or the First Lord of the Admiralty, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, was carefully eliminated, since their utterances on the naval question have been uniformly to show that there is no present danger of war, and that should there be such danger not only was Great Britain in position to preserve the necessary supremacy on home waters, but in case of necessity, to spare enough vessels to send a formidable squadron to the aid of any of the overseas Dominion.

The Prime Minister gave an elaborate account of his visit to England, which he read from a copy furnished in advance to the Government press, in which he outlined the negotiations between himself and his colleagues and the British ministers and admiralty officials. As a result of these negotiations he presented a memorandum which had been furnished him by the Admiralty, setting forth the position of affairs. But instead of giving copies of this memorandum to the House before the opening of the session he carefully preserved it, so that no one but himself knew what was the nature of the arguments to be brought down, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the other leaders of the Liberal party were deliberately placed at a disadvantage in considering the propositions to be made all of which was quite contrary to be recognized custom of the British Parliament, where naval matters especially are treated on a national rather than a party basis.

The gist of this memorandum was that while during past years the British fleet had been steadily increasing in power and efficiency all the other nations had been increasing so that while the British fleet was unexampled in striking force the combined fleets of other nations bore a much greater relation of power than in previous years when many were content to go without a powerful navy.

As a result it was set forth that it had been found necessary to concentrate the fleet in home waters, in the "decisive theatres" of any possible European war, so that whereas in 1902 there were 160 British vessels on the overseas stations to-day there were but 76, while it was shown that the overwhelming strength of the navy in home waters was such as to ensure the Empire against successful attack, this concentration at home to that extent weakened the forces at the overseas station.

Further the memorandum says:—Anything which increases our margin in the newest ships diminishes the strain and augments our security and our chances of being left unmolested.

This is followed by assurances that whatever Canada may decide "at the present juncture" Great Britain will not fail in her duty to the Overseas Dominions of the Crown. And again "The aid which Canada could give at the present time is not to be measured only in ships or money. Any action on the part of Canada to increase the power and mobility of the Imperial navy, and thus widen the margin of our common safety, would be recognized everywhere as a most significant witness to the United strength of the Empire, and to the renewed resolve of the Overseas Dominions to take their part in maintaining its integrity."

Not one word anywhere to indicate any emergency demanding immediate relief by what Mr. Winston Churchill called a "Flinging about of millions on an impetuous impulse." Not until the last paragraph is reached, and then the suggestion is that the emergency was made by Mr. Borden himself:—

"The Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada having enquired in what form any immediate aid that Canada of the party, and Sir Wilfrid's motion censuring such practices was defeated by 119 to 71.

MONDOU'S AMENDMENT SWAMPED.

The amendment, presented by Mr. Mondou, the Nationalist member for Yamaska, was artfully framed to catch the unwary. After perfunctory expressions of loyalty it set forth that while Parliament was prepared to take measures for the effective defence of Canada as a self-governing colony it was not prepared to tax the people of the Dominion for the general defence of the Empire so long as the Imperial government, solely responsible to the people of the United Kingdom, retained exclusive control and direction of Imperial affairs.

It was carefully designed to express something of what the Premier had said about sharing in the issues of peace and war, and also to synchronize with the Liberal doctrine of no taxation without representation.

But again Sir Wilfrid showed himself too astute to fall into any such trap, and broad statesman enough to rise above the realm of party storm. In a dignified speech he admitted the importance of the issue involved, but considered the time inopportune to discuss it until the government had announced its naval policy. Therefore without discussing the principles at all he opposed the amendment.

With this Mr. Borden agreed, but followed with the quibble: "It is not a question of taxation and representation. There is no proposal that the people of Canada shall be taxed except by their own representative in Parliament." But have the people no right to say what shall be done with their money when issues of such epochal importance are under consideration? If the majority of the people disapprove of the government's plans have they not the right to say so before their taxes are committed perhaps for years to come?

Then the House witnessed the unusual spectacle of both the great parties voting together against the amendment. The Nationalist ministers and members generally forgot their pre-election utterances, and only three, Messrs. Achim, Barrette and P. M. Lamarche, supported Mr. Mondou's motion. Mr. Lamarche was emphatic and declared that the amendment violated the principles of Cartier and Macdonald, and that "while standing by conservative principles he was bound to do his duty and vote once more against the Conservative party."

NO OBSTRUCTION ATTEMPTED.

Evidently inspired efforts have been made by the Conservative press to try and make it appear that the Liberals tried to unduly prolong the debate on the Speech from the Throne in order to prevent the Premier from bringing down his naval propositions. Hansard shows no mention of this. Throughout the whole debate it proceeded in regular manner, with alternation of Liberals and Conservatives, while it had been arranged between the party whips that the vote should be taken on Tuesday night—which was the first occasion on which a Liberal followed a Liberal. Further than that Sir Wilfrid and his followers joined the government side in voting down Mr. Mondou's inopportune amendment without discussion. In point of time occupied the Liberals were undoubtedly in the lead, and for a very good reason. They were pressing the attack and giving fullest evidence to support their criticisms regarding the Macdonald bye-election. The Government supporters were trying their best to forget and avoid that disagreeable episode—hence they soon found that brevity was the better part of discretion.

BORDEN HIS OWN PRESS AGENT.

Premier Borden has hardly shown qualifications which would fit him for an admiralty post in the Canadian navy. His record on this question amply bears out the Scripture: "Unstable as water that shalt not excel." This is how he has steered his way during the past year or two:

1909—Declared for navy, built, manned and owned in Canada. (The Laurier proposal.)

Feb. 1910—A contribution equalling the cost of two Dreadnoughts, leaving the expenditure to the discretion of the Admiralty.

Nov. 1910—Declared against contribution of any kind without first consulting the people.

1911—Made common cause in Quebec Province, with the Nationalists, who opposed alike contribution or navy.

1912—Chiefly spent hunting up some expedient which would satisfy the Jingoists without antagonizing the Nationalists.

REDUCTION IN THE CEMENT DUTY.

Much debate has occurred in Parliament regarding the reduction in the cement duties last year, which "happened to come just to come before the Saskatchewan elections. The way in which this Dominion aid to provincial electioneering was engineered was plainly shown by Hon. Mr. Murphy. "Hon. Mr. White" he said, "declared that his action had nothing to do with politics, and the reduction in the cement duty 'happened' to synchronize with the Saskatchewan elections. Why did not he say that the reduction was timed to synchronize with a certain banquet in Regina, and carefully arranged by the government stage manager, Hon. Mr. Rogers?"

The Order in Council giving the reduction was passed Saturday June 8th, but carefully concealed until it was announced at Regina, on June 10th with a blare of trumpets by Mr. Rogers who was organizing the Conservative forces in Saskatchewan. A clearer attempt to influence the Provincial elections could not be imagined.

Ottawa, Dec. 7th.—At last Premier Borden has brought down his temporary expedient to tide over the government's emergency regarding the navy. It calls for a gift of $35,000,000 of Canadian money to the Imperial admiralty for the construction of three of the finest modern warships that science can devise or money buy. These vessels are to be constructed in England and turned over to the British admiralty as fast as built, manned by them with English officers and crews and added to the equipment of the fleet for such service as the admiralty may think fit, also to be maintained entirely by the Royal Navy.

In all his lengthy address Mr. Borden proceeded upon the assumption that there was a stringent emergency which demanded an immediate outlay of large sums of money by Canada to help the Mother Country to tide over the situation. But nothing in his speech backed this assumption up. It was carefully planned to show this, and everything that had been said during the past few months by the by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

called a "Flinging about of millions on an impetuous impulse." Not until the last paragraph is reached, and then the suggestion is that the emergency was made by Mr. Borden himself:—

"The Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada having enquired in what form any immediate aid that Canada might give would be most effective, we have no hesitation in answering after a prolonged consideration of all the circumstances that it is desirable that such aid should include the provision of a certain number of the largest and strongest of ships of war which science can build or money supply." It is also notable that nowhere is there any evidence that Mr. Borden asked advice regarding a permanent naval policy for Canada. Had he done so it is hardly to be doubted that he would have been advised to create fleet units, as was suggested at the Imperial Conference of 1907, and as Australia was advised to do—and is now doing.

And on this Hon. Mr. Borden proposed to Parliament that the Liberal Policy of building up a distinctively Canadian fleet to make Canada a real maritime nation able to bear its share in building, manning and handling a navy, should be abandoned, and that $35,000,000 should be at once donated to Great Britain to build ships which will be distinctively British, save that they will bear Canadian names.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his brief reply, said "I am glad to tell the Premier that gentlemen on this side, though differing from him in other matters, share absolutely his devotion and loyalty to the British Empire." Which statement was cheered by the whole House.

Dealing briefly with the Memorandum Sir Wilfrid pointed out how impossible it was to inject anything into it suggestive of an immediate crisis, and said—"The people of this country will be glad to know that we have not now to deal with any emergency, but with that new condition existing not only in Europe and the British Empire but all over the world—the tendency towards excessive armament."

In dignified manner the Opposition Leader then pointed out that it would be unusual and impossible under the circumstances to discuss the measure on the first reading, and intimated that he would be prepared to lay down the Liberal views when the matter is again up on Tuesday.

came sole manager of these branches and now has been appointed to the responsible position of president of the Imperial Life.

He is connected with numerous business and financial concerns besides being a director of the Dominion Securities Corporation, the Central Canada Loan & Savings Co., the Robert Simpson Co., a trustee of the Toronto General Hospital and the Toronto Conservatory of Music, vice-president of the local branch of Underwriters Association of Canada, and vice-president of the Provident Investment
Co. and chairman of the Symphony Orchestra. In religion he is a Methodist and a trustee of the Metropolitan Church. He belongs to several of the leading clubs of Toronto, among them being the National Club, Ontario Club,
Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto
Hunt Club and Lambton Golf Club.

Away from his office Mr. Cox has cultivated a variety of interests. He is one of the leading patrons of music in Toronto; in his devotion to the affairs of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra resembling a young Montrealeer, Col. Frank S. Meighen, who has been trying to give Canada grand opera at his own expense. Horses are another of Mr. Cox's diversions.
He owns some of the best known thoroughbreds on the continent. He is a breeder rather than a race track devotee, and has exhibited with much success in Montreal, Toronto and New York.

Taken at His Word.

When Rossetti was a student of art
he one day happened to go with some fellow students to the east end of London. There at a wharfed inn he saw an immense canvas on the barroom wall. After laughing at it for some time and thus provoking the innkeeper's wrath the following conversation
took place:

"Where did you get that picture?"
"Oh, never mind, young man, where I got it!"
"What price do you set on it?"
"More than you can afford!"
"Indeed!" said Rossetti. "Now, how much?"
"Three thousand pounds," replied
the innkeeper.

At this there was a loud burst of laughter from the young artists.

"Do you know how much I would give you for your £3,000 picture?"
"How much?" asked the innkeeper.
"Three pounds," said Rossetti.

"Done," said the innkeeper promptly. And to his amazement and amusement Mr. Rossetti found himself the owner of the colossal daub.

New York's First Sidewalk.

The first sidewalk in New York was laid by a woman, Mrs. Samuel Provoost, about 1716. She was an importer and merchant and laid the sidewalk
for the convenience of her customers.
She had importuned the authorities to do it, but they refused, saying it was impossible. After her object lesson paving and curbing gradually came in,
but for some time her sidewalk was so famous that people journeyed even from Philadelphia to see it.

Chain Up Dogs.

Toronto, Dec. 10.—A regular rabies scare is now dominating Ward Seven, consequent on the series of attacks made on the residents by dogs in that locality.

The majority of the victims will be subjected to the Pasteur treatment and bad results may be thus avoided. When asked as to the necessity of enforcing an order for all dogs to be chained Provincial Medical Health Officer McCullough stated that the Government would have to be communicated with.

At the City Council yesterday a petition signed by many residents of the west was presented by Alderman Ryding. It reads: "In view of the fact that rabies has been very prevalent in the vicinity of Ward 7 for some time and also in view of the fact that a number of people have been bitten by rabid animals, we humbly petition you to take some steps to prevent the spread of rabies immediately, and would suggest that all dogs west of Dufferin street be chained securely and dog owners failing to comply with this regulation should be subjected to a good, stiff penalty. We further recommend that the dog tax be raised to $10."

Dinner In Bryce's Honor.

New York, Dec. 10.—Citizens of New York who are members of the American committee for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of peace among English-speaking peoples in 1914-15 announced yesterday plans for a reception and dinner in honor of Ambassador James Bryce, the retiring British ambassador to this country at the Hotel Astor on next Friday evening. Alton B. Parker will preside, and among the speakers will be Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to England.

Capacious Commandments.

"A little girl at our church," said a Cleveland minister, "kneelt beside her mother while the commandments were being read. When the rector read, 'On these two commandments hang all of the law and the prophets,' the little girl whispered:

"Mamma, how many?"

"She blessed her mamma.

"But, mamma, how many prophets are there?"

"Why, Isalah, Jeremiah, Habbakuk, Jonah, Haggai, Malachi, Zephaniah, dearie. I can't think of all of them without looking them up, but I fancy there must have been about twenty."

"Twenty? And they hanged 'em all on two commandments?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WOMEN OF FRANCE.

They Are the Bosses Even Though the Men Won't Admit It.

The women of France have been described as the backbone of the French nation. The remark applies more to the middle class than to the aristocracy. The bourgeoisie, truly a helpmeet to her husband, is in fact more often a manager and as a rule efficient in that capacity. It is she who carries on the little shop, while her husband, perhaps nominally the head, runs errands at her bidding. Not that the Frenchman would admit that; nevertheless it is the truth. It may be, too, that he has business interests elsewhere as well. Thus

A BY-LAW

To Prohibit the Sale by Spirituous, Fermented, Manufactured Liquors Municipality of the Village of Bath.

The Municipal Council of the Village of Bath hereby enacts as follows:

1.—That the sale by retail of spirituous, fermented, or other mixed liquors is and shall be prohibited in every shop or place of public entertainment, except by wholesale, in the said municipality, and the sale of such liquors, except by wholesale, is prohibited in every shop or place of public entertainment, except by wholesale, in the said municipality.

2.—That the vote of the Village of Bath on this by-law by the return hereinafter named on the 15th of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, commencing at five o'clock in the morning and ending at five o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the passing of this by-law, shall be as follows:

3.—That on the 23rd day of December, A. D., 1912, at his office in the village of Bath, at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the passing of this by-law, the Municipal Council of the Village of Bath shall attend at the Town Hall, at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the sixth day of January, A. D., 1913, to sum up the votes given for and against the passing of this by-law.

4.—That the Clerk of the Municipal Council of the Village of Bath shall attend at the Town Hall, at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon of the sixth day of January, A. D., 1913, to sum up the votes given for and against the passing of this by-law.

5.—This By-Law shall be in force and take effect as from the first day of May next after the final passing thereof.

Save Babies' Lives. For Babies and Small Children. (Made in France.)
Dr. Hennequin's Infant Tablets saved our little girl's life. Three doctors said she couldn't live. The Tablets cured her.—MR. E. R. McBRIDE, Napanee, Ont.
My baby was so weak from sickness that he could hardly walk. We thought he would die. We could find nothing to help him. I was given a sample package of three Hennequin Tablets; we used them; I saw a change at once. We secured the Tablets and our baby improved every day, and is now a bright, fat, good natured boy; you could not believe he was the same child. They certainly cured my baby and saved his life. I believe them to be the best medicine ever sold for babies. Mothers if your babies are not well take my advice and try these Tablets.—MRS. JAMES RIDDELL, Barrydale, Ont.
We have hundreds of such letters. If the Tablets were not what you need we would not offer to give them away and prepay them. If your baby is not well send for trial package. Hennequin Tablets have the letter "H" stamped upon them—this is your guarantee. All dealers, 25c per package, or 5 for $1.00 sent postpaid to any address.

Olive-Growing In Australia.
Probably in no country in the world could the olive be more widely grown than in Australia; yet, with the exception of some slight development in South Australia, it has till recently been practically a neglected industry there. But the steady increase in the importation of olive oil into Australia of recent years had turned the attention of Australian agriculturists to the cultivation of the olive, particularly as a sheltering barrier of state protection (50 cents a gallon) gives the grower an increased chance of profit, and it now looks as though the olive were destined to assume important dimensions as an Australian rural industry. The climate and soil of the greater part of New South Wales are said to be splendidly suited to the production of this sub-tropical fruit.

little shop, while her husband, perhaps nominally the head, runs errands at her bidding. Not that the Frenchman would admit that; nevertheless it is the truth. It may be, too, that he has business interests elsewhere as well. Thus he may work for the railway or for some other enterprise.

In Paris one enters an attractive little picture or jewelry shop on the Rue de Rivoli. A smiling Frenchwoman comes forward to cajole the tourist into buying all sorts of fascinating things he really does not want. It is the same at the shops where are sold kodak supplies and postcards—not a man to be seen except as a purchaser.

If one ferrets out a little hardware store and goes in to buy rope or nails or anything of that sort, there may be a man, the proprietor probably, to hunt for just what is desired, but even then his wife sits at the desk, guarding the money drawer and keeping a close watch over all that is happening.

Likewise at the butcher's madame sits in state at the receipt of cash. The case is the same at the grocer's, where she gives out change and keeps the accounts. No mere hireling is to be trusted with such weighty matters.

All customers should stop to greet the mistress of the shop as they enter and must on no account forget their "Bon jour, madame!" on departing. These little courtesies are among the essentials with the French, and if the foreigner forgets or neglects them he frequently fares badly.—London Spectator.

Selected Recipes

CHOCOLATE DOUGHNUTS—Beat two eggs, add one and one half cupfuls of sugar, a small piece of butter, two squares of (melted) chocolate, one cupful of milk, and one heaping teaspoonful of baking-powder in flour enough to make a soft dough. Fry as usual.

QUICK-MADE-SOUP—Throw into boiling water a handful of tapioca, with salt and pepper, and stir while cooking. Put in a pan a large piece of butter, and the yolks of two or three eggs beaten up in a little water. Pour in the boiling tapioca, and mix well by stirring.

BAKED PEAS, (A New Hampshire receipt.)—Wash a pint of split peas and put them in a bean-pot with a tablespoonful of molasses, a small strip of salt pork, and salt to taste. Cover with hot water and bake like beans, filling the pot with water as it cooks up. About three hours of baking is necessary.

POTATO TEA BISCUIT—To one cupful of hot mashed potato add one-half cupful of sugar and one yeast-cake dissolved in one-half cupful of warm water. Let the mixture rise. Add one-half cupful each of butter and sugar, two eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful of salt, and three and one-quarter cupfuls of flour. Knead the dough and let it rise. Then shape into biscuits and let it rise again. Brush over with sugar and water, and bake in a moderate oven.

A MORE ECONOMICAL PLUM PUDDING—Put one cupful of finely chopped raisins in the bottom of a mixing-dish, and mix one cupful of flour with it. Add one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of suet chopped fine, one-half teaspoonful each of clove, cinnamon and allspice, the juice and grated rind of one lemon, citron to suit, and salt, one cupful of grated carrot, one cupful of grated potato, one teaspoonful of soda, mixed with the potato. Mix all thoroughly, and steam three hours. Hard or liquid sauce as you please. This tastes much like English plum pudding, but it is far more easily digested.

CRANBERRY DUMPLINGS—Roll out a layer of dumpling crust, thin; spread thickly with wet cranberries rolled in sugar; roll up, and pinch the edges tightly together, and steam one-half hour. Serve with fairy-butter pudding sauce made as follows :

Cream one cupful of pulverized sugar with one large tablespoonful of butter; then beat lightly together with the yolk of an egg until the mixture is smooth and creamy. Beat the white of the egg to a stiff froth, mix all lightly but thoroughly; heap the sauce on a glass dish, sprinkle with nutmeg, and let it stand in a cold place to harden.

Making Sheep Raising Profitable.

In their report on the sheep industry the commissioners who investigated it on behalf of the Dominion Government state, among other things, that sheep in this country are, as a rule, poorly housed and poorly fed, that severe losses are sustained through lack of proper care during the winter season and that from shearing to marketing no country in the world handles its wool in a worse manner. Besides pointing out these weaknesses of many Canadian sheep raisers the commissioners report fully upon the state of the industry in Great Britain, and describe how Old Country shepherds handle their flocks, "Evidences of a definite object in

Close Lower—Live Stock—
Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Wheat sold today at the lowest price this season. A huge increase in the U. S. visible supply total had much to do with weakening the market. The government crop report, which also was bearish, came too late to affect quotations. The close was heavy at a net decline of 3-4c to 1 3-8c. Corn finished 3-8c to 1 1-8c down. oats off 1-8c to 3-8c, and provisions with a loss of 5c to 25c.

The Liverpool market closed 1/4d to 3/4d lower on wheat, and 1/4d lower on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged. Berlin 1/4c higher and Buda Pest 1/4c lower.

manner. Besides pointing out these weaknesses of many Canadian sheep raisers the commissioners report fully upon the state of the industry in Great Britain, and describe how Old Country shepherds handle their flocks. "Evidences of a definite object in breeding operations," they state, "are to be found on every hand, a certain demand being kept in view and every effort made to build up a reputation, and afterwards hold it." A farmer there may keep sheep of the breed popular in the district and although they may not be eligible for record in an Association Flock Book they are very highly bred and young ewes are sold at very remunerative prices to neighboring farmers for crossing purposes. For producing early lambs the ewes are bred to lambs soon after New Years. Male lambs not intended for early trade are always wethered. Besides grass pastures, such crops as kale, vetches, rape, cabbages and turnips are grown for the sheep. These are often sown in succeeding periods in season so that when one is consumed another is ready thus providing fresh feed a part of the summer. The sheep are not allowed to forage over large areas but are often kept within portable fences which are moved periodically to take in new patches. The same thoroughness is exercised in the treatment of the flock throughout the winter with the result that sheen keeping is a highly profitable branch of English agriculture. The report of the Sheep Commission is rich in information of the greatest value to persons interested in any branch of the sheep industry. Copies are still available for distribution to those who apply for them to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

CATTLE MARKET.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 9.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ended Dec. 7, were 2200 cattle, 1100 sheep and lambs, 3100 hogs and 400 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1600 cattle, 750 sheep and lambs, 1425 hogs and 250 calves.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for cattle and prices were fully 25c per cwt. higher than a week ago, which was attributed to the more favorable weather for this season of the year. The demand was good and an active trade was done. Some picked lots of choice steers sold as high as $6.75, but the bulk of the trading was done at $6.50, while full car loads brought $6.25 to $6.35 and light stock $5.50 to $5.75 per cwt. Canning stock is in good demand at from $2.50 to $3 per cwt.

A feature of the small meat trade continues to be the strong undertone to the market for lambs and prices have scored a further advance of 25c per cwt., which is attributed to the smaller supplies coming forward and the good demand for the same. Consequently sales were made freely at $6.75 to $7 per cwt. The tone of the market for sheep was firm and prices unchanged. The trade in calves was fairly good.

The tone of the market for hogs was similar and prices were 25c per cwt. lower LIVERPOOL, Dec. 9.—John Rogers & Co. cable that there is no change in the situation so far. The Irish embargo is still on and there were no fresh supplies of cattle on the Birkenhead market today.

Counting the Cost.

O maiden, you are fair to see!
O maiden, will you be my bride?
Say that you'll run away with me
And be forever by my side,
For I will shield you from all harm,
Be your defense when tempest tossed,
Your shield shall be my strong right arm—
Er—say—what did that outfit cost?

That hat is a bewitching thing.
It matches your sweet eyes so blue.
I like that droopy sort of wing.
That ribbon bow's a daisy too.
You look just like a poster girl
Beneath that stunning kind of hat!
That's a swell buckle. Is it pearl?
What did your father pay for that?

That hobble skirt is quite all right.
It surely does appeal to me!
Perhaps it is a trifle tight.
Oh, what a comfort you will be
To me through all life's winding ways!
Your love makes glad this moldy earth.
Your laugh will brighten gloomy days—
Say, what is such a hobble worth?

So you'll elope, my pearl of pearls!
You're sure the step you'll ne'er regret!
Of course you are the best of girls.
Of course, sweetheart, I love you yet.
But still—ahem!—I'd better state
I'm not eloping, thanks, today.
I am convinced we ought to wait
Until the boss shall raise my pay!

CHRISTMASY TRIFLES.

Make Somebody Happy by Giving Her a Reticule.

Every Christmas needleworker this year is making a reticule for somebody. There is a craze at present for these graceful bags, and styles range from simple affairs of linen for use with next summer's frocks to the most elaborate bags of satin and gold lace, to be carried with opera and theater costumes. Such a bag, if it is to be successful must be fashioned with the very best of materials, and a really handsome bag of this sort may easily cost $4 or $5 for the materials alone, though the finished models in the shops, especially the imported models, are tremendously expensive. The handsomest reticules are made of heavy, soft satin, veiled with gold lace or metallic net and ornamented with the tiny ribbon flowers which may be bought all ready to apply. Simpler bags of satin, embroidered with silk or chenille and braided with gold or silver cord, are very effective also, and most dainty theater bags may be made of Dresden ribbon, lined with soft, heavy satin in a delicate pastel tint. The large reticule is always perfectly flat in shape and is usually in envelope style, with one side buttoning over the other at the top. A thin strip of whalebone should be inserted inside the lining across the top of such a reticule.

Quaint Effects In Pincushions.

A charmingly quaint little pincushion and one that can easily be made by the girl who can handle a needle, is the Brownie cushion. Hunt up one of your long neglected friends, the ping pong ball, and with watercolors paint a weird looking face upon it. Then take a piece of sateen the color you wish to dress Brownie in and cut it five inches long by three inches wide. Sew this tightly at each end to form ears that stand away from the head and gather the rest up behind to make the little baldheaded cap, then paint in a little fringe of hair to peep

THE HOLIDAY PARTY.

A Few Suggestions For Enlivening Yuletide Evenings.

In cities balloons are almost always obtainable, so get bright red ones and try this novel scheme for a children's party. Surround the cake with tiny candlesticks or candelabra holding red tapers and sprinkle the cloth with holy sprays and diamond dust (Christmas snow).

From the back of each chair tie a red ribbon on the end, floating gayly in the air a red balloon. Here is the way to give the favors (red snapping motto caps): Tie one to the end of the string of a red balloon and let it go away up to the ceiling.

If the snapper is not heavy enough weight it with a chocolate cigarette or one of the many hard, all chocolate shapes that children love. Then let each little guest catch a balloon and bring it down to earth. To make more out underneath the cap, which will improve the looks of Brownie.

A small, tight body is made out of a ball of raw cotton. This is so covered with sateen to match the cap and sewed down fast in the back. Arms and legs are made by covering wide ribbon wire with pale pink satin ribbon. These are attached to the cotton body before the dress is put on, and they can be bent into any funny posture you wish. It is cunning to have Mr. Brownie look as if he were sitting down in crossleg fashion like a tiny tailor.

In his two hands he holds a bow of narrow ribbon with a long loop attached. This serves to hang the little fellow up with if you wish to have him at the side of your dressing table.

No one wants to stick cold steel into this dear little fellow, so at his back you sew fast a long narrow cushion in which you may run all the pins and needles you wish without marring the quaint looks of your little friend.

The doll cushion illustrated is a charming trifle made of ribbon and cream satin touched up with water-colors.

You can earn one too, easily.
You only have to do three things.

FIRST.

Right away now—take a post card or a sheet of paper and write out the full names (Christian names and surnames) and full addresses of TEN boy friends or chums whom you know would like to earn some pocket money. (Boys between 8 and 15 years of age—no two in the same family.)

SECOND.

Sign your name and address at the bottom of the card or sheet so that we will know who sent the list.

THIRD.

Mail the list complete with five cents in coin or stamps to us right away, addressing your letter to Sales Division, the "Witness," "Witness" Block, Montreal.

Your list of names should be mailed within seven (7) days after you read this splendid offer.

Just as soon as we get your list of names, we will send one of these beautiful Souvenir Pins to you and you will like it immensely.

Should your chums have had experience in magazine or newspaper selling—so much the better—send THEIR names.

We don't tell you why we want the names—because perhaps you don't care; if you do, or if you yourself want to earn good pay for work for us—why tell us in a letter and we will explain our whole money-making plan to you—and besides you will learn 'Salesmanship.'

Many of the World's Great Men Won Fame in Their Youth.

Some of the greatest achievements in the world have been made by youth, and it will always be so in human history. David, the sweet singer of Israel, was a shepherd, a poet and a general before he was twenty and a king at the age of eighteen. Raphael had practically completed his life work at the age of thirty-seven. He did no great artistic work after that age. James Watt, even as a boy, as he watched the steam coming out of the teakettle, saw in it the new world of mechanical power made possible by the old element turned and driven by a simple appliance.

MADE THE CLERKS WORK.

A Senator Wanted Information and Found a Way to Get It.

"Congress makes lots of unnecessary trouble for the government clerks," said a veteran employee, "but the worst case I know of occurred some years ago. A certain senator asked the comptroller of the currency to tell him how much stock a certain man had in a national bank. He was informed that such information was regarded as confidential and could not be given out.

"We'll see about that," said the senator, who was plainly disappointed and displeased.

"Several days later he secured the passage of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate with the names and holdings of the stockholders in all the national banks in the country. He really wanted to know only the interest of one man in a bank, but he knew that he couldn't get a resolution of that kind through the senate, so he included the stockholders in all national banks.

"It took the entire force of the comptroller's office several weeks to prepare the information, and when it reached the senate nobody paid any attention to it except the author of the resolution, and he merely looked at the mass of papers only long enough to see about the man he was after and then tossed the papers aside. It was an immense lot of work for nothing."

A Wonderful Toy.

Perhaps the most wonderful toy in the world is owned by a Russian prince, who lavished a fortune of $60,- 000 on a mechanical theater. The stage is fitted up with every accessory in the shape of scenery and machinery that modern skill has devised, and the actors are figures as large as life, all dressed as sumptuously and appropriately as their living prototypes. The prince's repertoire covers almost all the most popular operas, and it is only necessary to press a button to set the whole marvelous machinery in motion.
 The actors make their entry on the stage and play their varied parts with appropriate gesture, while a number of phonographs supply the vocal parts in the voices of the leading operatic singers.

Moreover, the young woman of whom I spoke. She is amiable and well behaved."

"What is her name?"

"She was sent to me by some one of high rank, under the name of Kitty. I have not endeavored to discover her other name."

"Kitty!" cried milady to herself. To the abbess she said:

"And when can I see this young lady?"

"Why, this evening," said the abbess: "today even. But you have been traveling these four days, as you told me. This morning you rose at 5 o'clock. You must stand in need of repose. Go to bed and sleep. At dinner time we will call you."

Milady was awakened by a soft voice which sounded at the foot of her bed. She opened her eyes and saw the abbess, accompanied by a young woman. Her face was entirely unknown to milady.

The abbess introduced them to each other. Then, as her duties called her, she left the two young women alone.

The novice sat down.

"How unfortunate I am!" said she. "Your presence was likely to afford me delightful company, and I expect, according to all probability, from one moment to another to leave the convent."

"I think I learned you had suffered persecutions from the cardinal," continued milady.

"What I have heard, then from our good mother is true—you have likewise been a victim of that wicked priest?"

"Hush!" said milady. "Let us not even here speak thus of him."

"But you, madame, you appear to be free, and if you were inclined to fly it only rests with yourself to do so."

"Whither would you have me go, without friends, without money, in a part of France with which I am unacquainted? I am alone or being persecuted."

"I have powerful friends, who, after having exerted themselves on my account, may also exert themselves for you."

"Oh, when I said I was alone," said milady, hoping to make the novice speak by speaking of herself, "it is not for want of some highly placed friends, but these friends themselves tremble before the cardinal. The good queen herself does not dare to oppose the terrible minister."

"Oh, you know her, then—that lovely and noble queen?" cried the novice warmly.

"I have not the honor of knowing her personally, but I know a great number of her most intimate friends. I know M. de Treville."

"Oh," cried the novice, "we shall soon be well acquainted, almost friends. If you know M. de Treville you must have visited him?"

"Often," said milady.

"You must have met some of his musketeers. Do you know a gentleman of the name of Athos?"

Milady became as pale as the sheets in which she was reclining.

"What is the matter?" asked the poor novice. "Have I said anything that has hurt your feelings?"

"No, no; but the name struck me, because I also have known that gentleman. I know not only him, but some of his friends—M. Porthos, Aramis and D'Artagnan."

"You know M. d'Artagnan?" cried the novice, fixing her eyes upon milady.

cielux.

"This evening?" asked milady. "What do you mean? Do you expect any news from him?"

"I expect him himself."

"But that's impossible! He is at the siege of La Rochelle."

"Read!" said the unhappy young woman in the excess of her pride and joy, presenting a letter to milady.

"Humph! The writing of Mme. de Chevreuse!" said milady to herself. And she greedily read:

My Dear Child—Hold yourself in readiness. Our friend will see you soon, and he will only see you to release you from that imprisonment in which your safety required you should be concealed. Prepare, then, for your departure and never despair of us. Tell him that certain parties are grateful to him for the warning he has given.

At that moment the galloping of a horse was heard.

"Oh," cried Mme. Bonacieux, darting to the window, "can it be he?"

Milady remained still in bed, petrified by surprise.

"Alas, no!" said Mme. Bonacieux. "It is a man I don't know, and yet he seems to be coming here. Yes, he has checked his horse—he stops at the gate—he rings!"

Milady sprang out of bed and began to dress herself.

"The man is coming here, do you say? He must come either to you or to me."

"Hush!" said Mme. Bonacieux. "Somebody is coming." In fact, the door opened, and the superior entered.

"Do you come from Boulogne?" demanded she of milady.

"Yes, I do. Who wants me?"

"A man who will not tell his name, but who comes from the cardinal."

"Then let him come in, if you please."

"I will leave you with this stranger, but as soon as he is gone, if you will permit me, I will return," said Mme. Bonacieux.

"Certainly! I beg you will." The superior and Mme. Bonacieux retired. The door opened, and a man appeared. Milady uttered a cry of joy. This man was the Count de Rochefort, the agent of the cardinal.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Two Varieties of Demons.

"YOU come?"—asked milady. "From La Rochelle. And you?"

"From England."

"How is Buckingham?"

"Dead or desperately wounded. A fanatic has just assassinated him. I wrote to the cardinal from Boulogne."

"His eminence was uneasy and sent me to inquire after you."

"I only arrived yesterday."

"And what have you been doing since yesterday?"

"I have found here that young woman whom the queen took out of prison."

"The mistress of that fellow D'Artagnan?"

"Yes, Mme. Bonacieux, with whose retreat the cardinal was unacquainted."

"Does she know you?"

"No."

"Then she looks upon you as a stranger."

Milady smiled.

"I am her best friend. She is about to be taken away tomorrow or the day after with an order from the queen by D'Artagnan and his friends."

"These men certainly will go so far

"Set off back again directly. It appears to me that the news you hear is worth the trouble of a little diligence."

"My chaise broke down coming into Lilliers."

"I want your chaise."

"And how shall I travel then?"

"On horseback. In passing through Lilliers you will send me your chaise with an order to your servant to place himself at my disposal. You have, no doubt, about you some order from the cardinal. Show it to the abbess and tell her that some one will come and fetch me either today or tomorrow and that I am to follow the person who presents himself in your name."

"Very well."

"Don't forget to treat me harshly in speaking of me to the abbess. I must inspire confidence in that poor little Mme. Bonacieux."

"That's true. Now where shall I find you?"

"At Armentieres, a little town upon the Lys. I shall only have to cross the river and I shall be in a foreign country."

"Write that name on a piece of paper, lest I should forget it. There is no fear of compromising yourself in that. A name of a town, is it not?"

"Eh? Who knows? Never mind," said milady, writing the name upon half a sheet of paper. "I will commit myself for once by writing."

"That will do," said Rochefort, taking the paper from milady, folding it and placing it in the lining of his hat. "Besides, to make sure I will repeat the name as I go along."

An hour afterward Rochefort set out at his horse's best speed. Five hours after that he passed through Arras.

Our readers already know that he was recognized by D'Artagnan and how that recognition, by inspiring fear in the four musketeers, had given fresh activity to their journey.

Rochefort had scarcely departed when Mme. Bonacieux re-entered. She found milady with a smiling countenance.

"Well," said Mme. Bonacieux, "what you dreaded has happened. This evening or tomorrow the cardinal will send some one to take you away. I heard it from the messenger."

"Come and sit down close to me," said milady. "Then he has well played his part. That man is my brother. Coming to my assistance to take me away, by force if necessary, he met with the emissary of the cardinal, who was coming in search of me. He required the messenger to deliver up to him the papers of which he was the bearer. The messenger resisted. My brother killed him."

"Oh!" said Mme. Bonacieux, with a shudder.

"My brother took the papers and presented himself here as the emissary of the cardinal, and in an hour or two a carriage will come to take me away by the orders of his eminence."

"I understand. Your brother sends this carriage."

"Exactly so. But that is not all. That letter you have received and which you believe to be from Mme. de Chevreuse is a snare to prevent your making any resistance when the persons come to fetch you."

"But it is D'Artagnan that will come."

not appear things were to go on been agreed. Mme. Bonacieux got into the carriage as if to adieu, and she was to take away Bonacieux. Mme. Bonacieux and the lackey left.

Milady made her a sign to sit before her, poured out a small Spanish wine for her and held to the wing of a chicken.

But at that moment milady something on the road which like the rattling of a distant and which drew nearer, and, at the same time, she heard the of horses. She grew pale and the window, while Mme. Bon rising all in a tremble, supported self upon her chair to avoid fall.

Nothing was yet to be seen they heard the galloping draw. The horses could not be more than a hundred paces distant. If the not yet to be seen it was because road made an elbow.

All at once, at the turning road, milady saw the glitter of hats and the waving of feathers counted two, then five, then horsemen. One of them preceded by double the length of his Milady uttered a stifled groan. The first horseman she recognized tagnan.

"They are the cardinal's guard," cried milady, endeavoring to distance along by the arm. "Through the garden, we yet can fly. The key, but make haste! In a few minutes it will be too late!"

Mme. Bonacieux endeavored to make two steps and sank upon knees.

At this moment they heard the ring of the carriage, which at the approach of the musketeers, set a gallop. Then three or four were fired.

"For the last time, will you cry milady."

"I cannot walk. Fly alone!" "Fly alone, and leave you here no, never!" cried milady.

All at once she remained still; a flash darted from her eyes; she rushed to the table, poured into Mme cielux's glass the contents of which she opened with singularity. It was a grain of a color, which melted immediately.

Then, taking the glass with hand:

"Drink," said she; "this will give you strength, drink!"

And she put the glass to the lips of the young woman, who drank mechanically.

"This is not the way that I to avenge myself," said milady, placing the glass upon the table with an infernal smile, "but we do it can!" And she rushed out of room.

At length Mme. Bonacieux hating the hinges of the gates, the noise of boots and sounded on the stairs; there great murmur of voices. All she uttered a loud cry of joy.

Several men rushed into the chamber. Mme. Bonacieux had sunk into a chair, without the power of moving.

"Oh, D'Artagnan, my beloved D'Artagnan, thou art come, then, at last! Thou hast not deceived me! It is indeed thee! Oh, it was in vain my companion told me you would not come!"

"Your companion!" cried D'Artagnan, becoming more pale than the white veil of his mistress, "of what companion are you speaking dear Constance?"

"Of her whose carriage was at the gate, of a woman who calls herself your friend, of a woman to whom you have told everything. But my head swims. I cannot see!"

"Help, help, my friends! Her hands are icy cold!" cried D'Artagnan. "She will faint! Great God, she is losing her senses!"

Athos, standing before the table, his hair rising from his head, was looking at one of the glasses.

"Oh," said he, "oh, no; it is impossible!"

"Water, water!" cried D'Artagnan. "Water!"

"Oh, poor woman, poor woman!" murmured Athos.

Mme. Bonacieux opened her eyes under the kisses of D'Artagnan.

"She revives!" cried the young man.

"Madame," said Athos, "madame, in the name of heaven, who poured out the wine for you?"

"Oh, I remember," said Mme. Bonacieux, "the Countess de Winter."

The four friends uttered one and the same cry, but that of Athos dominated over all the rest.

At that moment the countenance of Mme. Bonacieux became livid, a fear-

CHAPTER XLV.

The Man With the Red Cloak.

THE despair of Athos had given place to a concentrated grief, which only rendered more lucid the brilliant mental faculties of that extraordinary man. He procured a map of the province, perceived that there were four different roads from Bethune to Armentieres and called Planchet, Grimaud, Bazin and Mousqueton, who received clear, positive and serious orders.

They were to set out for Armentieres the next morning at daybreak and to go to Armentieres, each by a different route.

All four were to meet the next day at 11 o'clock. If they had discovered milady's retreat three were to remain on guard; the fourth was to return to Bethune to inform Athos and serve as a guide to the four friends.

Athos then arose from his chair, girded on his sword, enveloped himself in his cloak and left the hotel. It was nearly 10 o'clock. He made his way to a small house, isolated, solitary, dark and dismal, on the outskirts of the town. Three times Athos knocked without receiving any answer. At the third knock, however, steps were heard inside. The door at length was opened and a man of high stature, pale complexion and black hair and beard appeared.

The man whom Athos had come so far to seek introduced him into his laboratory, where he was engaged in fastening together with iron wire the dry bones of a skeleton. All the frame was adjusted, except the head, which lay upon the table.

All the rest of the furniture indicated that the inhabitant of this house was engaged in the study of the natural sciences. But there was no family, no servant. The tall man inhabited this house alone.

Athos explained to him the cause of his visit and the service he required of him, but scarcely had he expressed his request than the unknown, who remained standing before the musketeer, drew back with signs of terror and refused. Then Athos took from his pocket a small paper, upon which were written two lines, accompanied by a signature and a seal, and presented them to him who had given too prematurely these signs of repugnance. The tall man had scarcely read these lines, seen the signature and recognized the seal when he bowed to denote that he had no longer any objection to make and that he was ready to obey.

Athos returned to the hotel and went to his apartment.

At daybreak D'Artagnan came to him and asked him, "What was to be done?"

"Wait!" replied Athos.

Shortly afterward Planchet returned. He had traced milady to Armentieres. She had engaged a chamber in the inn there, had sent for the master of the hotel and told him that she was desirous to remain for some time in that neighborhood. Planchet did not want to know any more. He hastened to the rendezvous, found the lackeys at their posts, placed them as sentinels at all the issues of the hotel clouds covered the heavens, concealing the stars. The moon would not rise much before midnight.

At every instant Athos was forced to restrain D'Artagnan, who had but one thought, which was to go forward. Several times Lord de Winter, Porthos or Aramis endeavored to enter into conversation with the man in the red cloak, but to every interrogation put to him he bowed without making any reply.

A little before they came to Fromilles the storm burst in all its fury upon them, and they unfolded their cloaks. They had still three leagues to travel, and they performed it amid torrents of rain.

At the moment the little troop had passed Goskal a man advanced into the middle of the road with his finger on his lips. Athos recognized Grimaud.

"What's the matter?" cried Athos. "Has she left Armentieres?"

Grimaud made a sign in the affirmative. D'Artagnan ground his teeth.

"Where is she?" asked Athos.

Grimaud stretched out his hands in the direction of the Lys.

"Alone?" asked Athos.

Grimaud made a sign that she was.

"Gentlemen," said Athos, "she is alone in the direction of the river."

"That's well," said D'Artagnan. "Lead us on, Grimaud."

Another flash enlightened all around them. Grimaud extended his arm, and they distinguished a little isolated house on the banks of the river within a hundred paces, of a ferry.

"This is the place," said Athos.

At this moment a man who had been crouching in a ditch jumped up and came toward them. It was Mousqueton. He pointed with his finger to a window with a light.

"She is there," said he.

"And Bazin?" asked Athos.

"While I kept my eye on the window he guarded the door."

"All is well!" said Athos.

Athos sprang from his horse, gave the bridle to Grimaud and advanced toward the window, after having made a sign to the rest of the troop to go toward the door.

By the light of a lamp Athos saw a woman enveloped in a mantle of a dark color seated upon a joint stool near the dying embers of a fire. Her elbows were placed upon a mean table, and she leaned her head upon her two hands, which were white as ivory.

At this moment one of the horses neighed. Milady raised her head, saw the pale face of Athos close to the window and screamed with terror. Athos, perceiving that she knew him, pushed the window with his knee and hand. It yielded; the frame and glass were broken to pieces. And Athos, like the specter of vengeance, sprang into the room.

Milady rushed to the door and opened it; but, still more pale and menacing than Athos, D'Artagnan stood on the sill.

Milady drew back, uttering a cry. D'Artagnan, believing she might have means of flight and fearing she should escape, drew a pistol from his belt, but Athos raised his hand.

"Put back that weapon, D'Artagnan," said he. "This woman must be judged, not assassinated. Come in, gentlemen."

Behind D'Artagnan entered Porthos, Aramis, Lord de Winter and the man in the red cloak. The four lackeys ful agony pervaded her frame, and she sank panting into the arms of Porthos and Aramis.

"D'Artagnan! D'Aragnan! Where art thou? Do not quit me. Thou seest that I am dying!" cried she.

Collecting all her strength, she took the head of D'Artagnan between her hands, looked at him for an instant as if her whole soul passed in that look and, with a sobbing cry, pressed her lips to his.

"Constance! Constance!" cried D'Artagnan wildly. But he held nothing but a corpse pressed in his arms.

The young man uttered a cry and fell by the side of his mistress as pale and as senseless as she was.

At that moment a man appeared in the doorway almost as pale as those in the chamber, looked round him and saw Mme. Bonacieux dead and D'Artagnan fainting.

"Gentlemen," said he, "you are, as I am, in search of a woman who," added he, with a terrible smile, "must have passed this way, for I see a corpse. I am the Lord de Winter, brother-in-law of that woman."

Athos arose and, offering him his hand, said:

"You are welcome, milord," said he; "you are one of us."

"I set out five hours after her from Portsmouth," said Lord de Winter. "I arrived three hours after her at Boulogne. I missed her by twenty minutes at St. Omer. At last at Lilliers I lost all trace of her. I was going about at hazard inquiring of everybody when I saw you gallop past. I recognized M. d'Artagnan. Are both dead?"

"No," replied Athos. "Fortunately M. d'Artagnan has only fainted."

At that moment D'Artagnan opened his eyes. He tore himself from the arms of Porthos and Aramis and threw himself like a madman on the corpse of his mistress.

Athos said to him, with his noble and persuasive voice:

"Friend, be a man! Women weep for the dead; men avenge them!"

Athos took advantage of the moment of strength which the hope of vengeance restored to his unfortunate friend to make a sign to Porthos and Aramis to go and fetch the superior.

"Madame," said Athos, passing his arm under that of D'Artagnan, "we abandon to your pious care the body of that unfortunate woman."

D'Artagnan concealed his face in the bosom of Athos and sobbed aloud. Then all five, followed by their lackeys, leading their horses, took their way to the town of Bethune and stopped before the first inn they came to.

"But," said D'Artagnan, "shall we not pursue that woman?"

"Presently," said Athos. "I have measures to take."

"She will escape us," replied the young man. "She will escape us, and it will be your fault, Athos."

"I will be accountable for her," said Athos. "Now, gentlemen," said he, "let every one retire to his own apartment. I take charge of everything."

"It appears, however," said Lord de Winter, "that if there be any measures to be taken against the countess it particularly concerns me. She is my sister-in-law."

"And," said Athos, "she is my wife!" D'Artagnan smiled, for he was satisfied Athos was sure of his venge-was desirous to remain for some time in that neighborhood. Planchet did not want to know any more. He hastened to the rendezvous, found the lackeys at their posts, placed them as sentinels at all the issues of the hotel and came to find Athos.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Athos ordered the horses to be saddled and had Lord de Winter and his friends informed that they must prepare for the expedition.

In an instant all five were ready. Every one examined his arms and put them in order.

"Patience!" cried Athos. "One of our party is still wanting."

The four horsemen looked round them with astonishment. At this moment Planchet brought out Athos' horse, and the musketeer leaped lightly into the saddle.

"Wait for me," cried he. "I will soon be back."

In a quarter of an hour he returned, accompanied by a tall man, masked and enveloped in a large red cloak. At 9 o'clock, guided by Planchet, the little cavalcade set out, taking the route milady's carriage had taken.

It was a stormy and dark night. Vast

"Put back that weapon, D'Artagnan," said he. "This woman must be judged, not assassinated. Come in, gentlemen."

Behind D'Artagnan entered Porthos, Aramis, Lord de Winter and the man in the red cloak. The four lackeys guarded the door and the window.

"What do you want?" screamed milady.

"We want," said Athos. "Charlotte Backson, who first was called Countess de la Fere and afterward Lady de Winter, Baroness de Sheffield."

"That is I, that is I!" murmured milady in extreme terror. "What do you want with me?"

"We want to judge you according to your crimes," said Athos. "You shall be free to defend yourself. Justify yourself if you can. M. D'Artagnan, it is for you to accuse her first."

"Before God and before men," said D'Artagnan, "I accuse this woman of having poisoned Constance Bonacieux."

"We bear witness to this," said Porthos and Aramis.

D'Artagnan continued:

"Before God and before men I accuse this woman of having attempted to poison me in wine which she sent me from Villorol, with a forged letter, as if that wine came from my friends. God preserved me, but a man named Brisemont died in my place."

The greatest pleasure you can give your family this Christmas is the pleasure of owning an Edison Phonograph

This year the Edison Phonograph is a finer musical instrument than it has ever been before, because it plays the wonderful Blue Amberol Records that Mr. Edison has just perfected.

Every Blue Amberol Record is made by an artist whose singing or playing can be perfectly recorded. Every Blue Amberol must pass a critical examination before it is offered to you. Each one is wear-proof and practically unbreakable—and the tone is finer and truer than ever. See your Edison dealer about it today.

PRACTICAL PRESENTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Old Fashioned Cross Stitch Used For Making Charming Gifts.

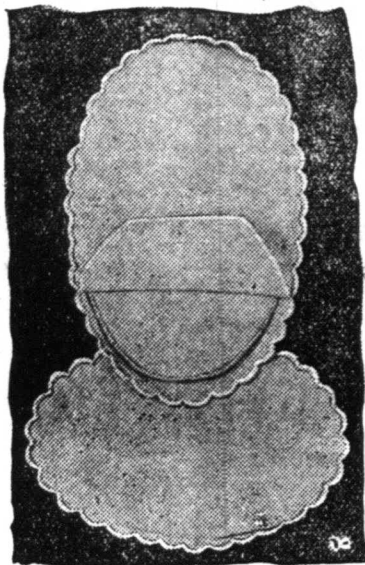

The recent revival of cross stitch for needlework goes merrily on, and not the least attractive and useful means of employing this old fashioned stitch is in the manufacture of guest

The frame can always be procured easily and only requires sufficient cretonne of a dainty pattern to form the nucleus of an eminently serviceable sewing kit. When not in use it can be folded up and placed in a corner, while it has a distinct advantage over the ordinary sewing bag, in that when the frame is extended the whole of the contents are visible at once.

The cretonne should be ganged on to the frame, with a heading of about an inch extending above the rods, while inner pockets for the sewing addenda can be added to suit individual taste. The round or square wooden boxes in which crystallized fruits are bought can be transformed into things of beauty, with the help of a yard or so of cretonne. Very fine cretonne should be used, and this should be pasted on the box.

An Extremely Useful Offering.

The housewife who is careful of her handsome mahogany dining table will be charmed to receive on Christmas morning a set of linen table mats. The number is only limited by the donor's generosity, but as a rule the set consists of a large mat for the meat platter and four of the protectors for use under vegetable dishes.

To make these mats two pieces of heavy white linen are required for each pad, which is buttonholed together except at one end, where an opening is left in which to slip asbestos mats cut a trifle smaller than the outer linen covering. The difference in size of the linen and the asbestos mats is employed to form a border, which in turn is outlined with a row of machine stitching.

These mats may be of colored linen, but white is a safer choice unless one knows the color scheme most affected by the person to whom the present is to be given.

A Utility Square.

If you have a friend who lives in a boarding house she will appreciate the gift of a utility square.

This is simply a fifty-four inch square of china silk, cretonne, silkoline, linen or any soft material that will take little room in a suitcase and which is used to throw over a chair on which undesirable things have been put.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR HIS HIGHNESS

Presents the Mere Man Will Find Attractive and Useful.

The man who travels will appreciate a handmade set for his satchel, including a shaving pad, tie holder, collar bag and a handkerchief case. Make them of linen art crash with an original design stenciled on the covers.

For the shaving pad cut two pieces of cardboard 4 by 7 inches, make two round holes in one side of each one-half inch from the edge. Cover the cards with the linen and on one side of each apply the stencil design. Another cardboard seven inches long and one inch wide is covered with linen. This is placed lengthwise of the edge of the two larger pieces and the edges whipped over and over with strong linen thread.

Now you have the covering for the thin sheets of paper. White tissue or manilla paper is cut into sheets to fit inside the covering. Round holes are made in them corresponding to those in the covers and narrow ribbon is run through each hole, brought over the back and tied in a flat bow.

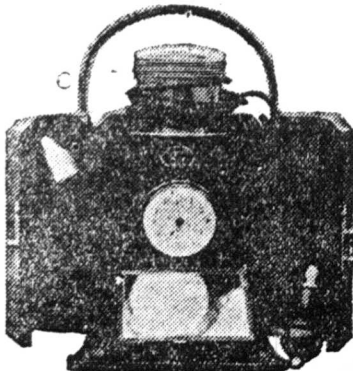

The tie holder is made much in the same way as the shaving case. Two pieces of cardboard are cut fourteen inches long and six inches wide, covered with linen stenciled and joined at one edge, so it will open like a book. The ties are folded and laid flat inside the cover.

Make the handkerchief case of linen folded like an envelope. When finished it is six inches square. The linen is padded with a layer of cotton wadding and lined with pink or blue china silk. It is put together perfectly flat, caught together with embroidery silk after it is folded over, and the flap is held in place with a small glove clasp.

The set or any one of the articles would make an appropriate holiday gift, would cost little and will be very easily made.

What the College Man Will Like.

Sofa pillows are gifts that always touch the heart of the college man, but these same cushions must be of the right kind to make a hit with his majesty. The ideal pillow, if intended to take any wear at all should be filled with feathers, not with cotton waste. Somebody may have to spend the night sleeping on that pillow. It should be of material that will neither fray nor fade. Soft velveteen, leather and a heavy silk in plain colors are ideal. If it bears any embroidery let it be well toward the edges or in the corners. Use no tinsel—tinsel scratches. If cords are used it must be seen that they are sewed—nay, riveted on—in the strongest possible fashion. Thereafter will the giver be in receipt of many blessings.

A FEW LAST MINUTE CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Charming Presents That Cost Little In Time or Money.

Any pretty trifle made to contain pins makes an acceptable gift for Christmas. A traveling convenience that is as useful at home as abroad is made after the manner of the old time needlebook that rolled up. The foundation of it is a strip of ribbon or silk—morooco and chamols can also be used, likewise canvas—about six inches wide and twenty inches long. Lay this flat on the cutting board and cover it with two thicknesses of cotton batting. Put a layer of coarse white flannel next to this and then one of coarse holed white net. Bind the edges neatly together with a satin ribbon matching the outside of the convenience, and then turn up four or five inches of the bottom of the strip and tack the ends to form a pocket. About five inches from the top put a plump pincushion with corners reaching to the strip edges. Have this an inch and a half deep and stick it full of varicolored pins—blue, green, red, pink, white and the ordinary sorts. They will look best if stuck in in some ornamental manner. In the space above the cushion put black and white safety pins in several sizes.

A Neckwear Gift.

bonnet holds pins of all colors and sizes, her reticule contains rings and brooches, and her parasol holds hatpins.

Sometimes the small daughter's favorite doll meets with an accident which leaves nothing intact but the head. Make one of these attractive dollies in the following manner:

Cut a cone shaped framework of buckram or cardboard. This is formed of a semicircle, with an opening in which to fit the doll's head.

Make a paper pattern first, so that the size may be exact. Fasten the sides together and sew the doll into her stiff skirt.

Sew leaden weights at the bottom of the frame, so that she may stand firmly.

To attractively dress dolly, use scraps of silk, ribbon, lace or figured dimity.

One lovely doll wore a frock of cream silk dotted with pink roses.

The skirt should be very full and the bodice short waisted. Over this make a tiny kerchief of white mull.

The bonnet should be pink silk and the reticule of the same material, opening and closing with a drawstring of ribbon.

The parasol, also pink, should be plaited silk attached to a crooked handle of wire wound with ribbon.

A large muff may be substituted for the parasol if desired.

This fascinating little maid is a delightful addition to the dresser and at the same time performs a mission in life. The attractive little cushion seen in the illustration is designed for use beside the baby's dressing table or basket. To make the cushion two bisque dolls about five inches long are

ENJOYING THE BEST OF HEALTH

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured His Rheumatism

PROF. J. F. DAVIS

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO.

I want to say to the people of Toronto and elsewhere that "Fruit-a-lives" is my only medicine and has been for the last four years. Previous to that, I had been very much troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies as well as employing hot applications of salt bags etc., without getting satisfactory results.

Noticing the advertisement of "Fruit-a-lives", I adopted this treatment altogether and, as everybody knows, since taking "Fruit-a-lives", I have been enjoying the very best health and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Deportment Instruction".

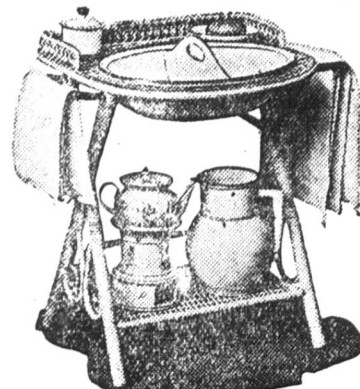

PROF. J. F. DAVIS.

Prof. Davis, the celebrated teacher of dancing and deportment in Toronto, is quite frank in stating that "Fruit-a-lives" alone cured him of distressing Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

set to work on a stock collar and jabot like the one seen in the illustration. A wide piece of fillet lace forms the high collar, which is edged at the top with folds of malines and black velvet.

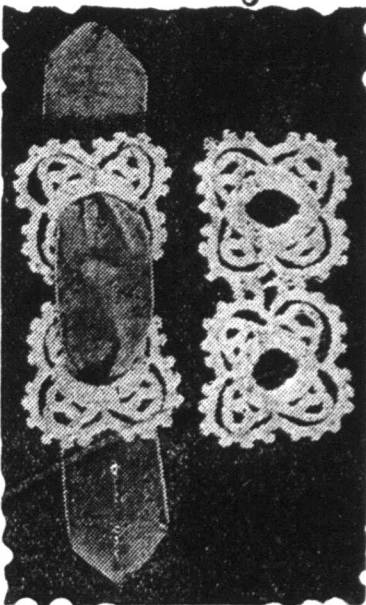

The "fall" is of gathered malines in two layers, each one trimmed with insertion matching that used for the collar. A pump bow of black velvet finishes the pretty gift.

An Easy to Make Jacket.

A combing jacket is something any woman would appreciate, especially if it is as pretty as some of those the shops are showing. The dainty things in the big stores are all but absolutely shapeless, two perfectly straight breadths being used to form a sort of jaunty kimono sack, with pointed back and front. The two lengths have the ends cut bias, this shaping making the front and rear points, and the sleeves are made by catching the breadth edge to edge under the arm. White fannel combing jackets are pretty with blue or pink satin ribbon bindings.

Make a Crochet Buckle.

The girl who crochets can turn out in a few hours several of the crocheted buckles like the dainty one pictured.

CROCHET BUCKLE.

Mercedized white cotton of a rather coarse number is used. Velvet ribbon is looped through the buckle with charming effect.

Pretty Gift For Invalids.

When planning the holiday gifts do not forget the invalid.

Make a bag of dainty flowered silk or cretonne, running inch wide satin ribbon in the top for a draw string and lining it with delicately scented silk.

Have the drawstring very long so it can be hung on the bedpost in easy reach of the invalid's hand without the necessity of her raising herself in bed.

In the bag is a small paper pad, pencil, handkerchief and anything she may need that otherwise would have to be handed to her by an attendant.

Lightful addition to the dresser and at the same time performs a mission in life. The attractive little cushion seen in the illustration is designed for use beside the baby's dressing table or basket. To make the cushion two bisque dolls about five inches long are necessary. The arms are removed from the dolls and the bodies stuffed around with cotton wadding, then attired in suits of pale blue satin. About the necks are collars of lace, and pretty blue satin caps adorn the curly blond heads. Pins are stuck into the cushions in an artistic design, and when loops of ribbon are applied at the back of each doll to act as a support the attractive trifle is ready to be packed in the Christmas box.

Gift For a Child.

A cute little Christmas gift for a child may be made from a small square of bright silk—some such tiny piece of silk as almost any mother will find among her ribbons.

Fill this with new pennies. The size of the bag, of course, depends on the number of pennies one wishes to give.

The child's name may also be written on the bag with pencil and embroidered in a color contrasting with the silk of the bag, though it will give just as much pleasure without this addition.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 837 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From my standpoint you view it. YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1—Pain in the back.
- 2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5—Frostatic trouble.
- 6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
- 7—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
- 8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
- 9—Swelling in any part of the body.
- 10—Constipation or liver trouble.
- 11—Palpitation or pain under the heart.
- 12—Pain in the hip joint.
- 13—Pain in the neck or head.
- 14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
- 15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
- 16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
- 17—Pain and soreness in nerves.
- 18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

The farmers who are subscribers for The Weekly Sun, Toronto, have reason to congratulate themselves on the enlargement and improvement to their paper. These improvements have only been possible by the support given the paper by its readers. They are amply rewarded by the knowledge that in The Sun they have a paper that voices their opinions without fear or favor. The Sun should be in every Ontario farm house; it's a duty the farmer owes to himself and his business.

Most smokers learn to smoke as boys, not because they have any real desire to acquire the habit so distasteful to those who, not smokers themselves, are brought into close contact with the smokers, but because the boy regards smoking as one of the habits of the the manly male, the up-to-date, worldly-wise being of his boyish admiration. To refuse to smoke is, to the boy, a sign of being a "goody-goody," and all the boys (and girls, too) have a whole-hearted contempt for the "goody-goody" type. Facts, however, prove that this is a misapprehension, a gross error, for, according to the "Beacon Light," the non-smokers include some of the best known names in history, the names of men of a decidedly virile type. Of statesmen, Gladstone detested tobacco, as did also Lord Salisbury. General Sir Wm.
Butler, soldier as he was, heartily disliked the weed. Of prominent men of letters, who have never smoked, we have a long list, among them Thomas Hardy, Ruskin, Matthew Arnold, W.
D. Howells and last, but by no means least, the versatile Irish genius, Bernard Shaw, not to mention the political economist, John Stewart Mills, and the historians, Gardiner and Lecky. These are but a few of the prominent men who have ranged themselves on the side of the antitobaccoists, but they suffice to show that a boy need not fear to take a similar stand, nor fear to lose part of his much prized masculinity by refusing to injure his health in acquiring an expensive and quite unnecessary habit.

DON'T BE BALD

Nearly Anyone may Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

We have a remedy that has a record of retarding baldness and promoting hair growth in 93 out of every 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so certain Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will eradicate dandruff, act to prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, arrest premature loss of hair and promote hair growth that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. With our guarantee

I have just arrived home from the Vermont Marble Quarries, where I selected a car of the finest pieces of marble that has ever been quarried, which include all the latest designs for 1913. We are in the business to stay, and are going to make up the most attractive Monuments, Head Stones, and Markers that have ever been put out in Napanee.

We Have No Old-Fashioned Stock on Hand That We are Anxious to Dispose of

We have sold nearly all of our 1912 stock.
By purchasing in immense quantities, direct from the quarries, we are enabled to offer our customers exceptional price savings on "First Quality of Monuments. We invite your inspection.

The First Annual Two Months Short Course in Agriculture

will be held under the auspices of the Napanee Collegiate Institute.

Jan. 6th to Feb. 28th, 1913

This short course in Agriculture is put on for the benefit of Farmers Sons who cannot attend the Ontario Agricultural College. The work will be made as PRACTICAL as possible, with special emphasis on those branches of Agriculture most important in this county. Lectures will begin at 9.30 a. m. and close at 3.30 p. m., so that boys within driving distance may live at home and attend. All text books will be provided by the Department. This course is intended for boys who have not been able to attend school regularly, as well as for more advanced scholars.
No fees. No age limit. No entrance examination. Every farmer's son in the county should make an effort to attend.
